

Lesson 12 Assignment

For your last assignment, I'm going to challenge you to design and build your own GUI application. We've done two complete GUI designs in the last few lessons, one for pizza and one for a team roster. Now put all that we've learned to work for you and design a small GUI related to something that you're familiar with. It can be from school, from work, from home, or straight out of your imagination. It doesn't have to be very complex, but you should design it to accomplish a real task, no matter how small or trivial it may seem.

Come to the Discussion Area to share your ideas or get help coming up with an idea. Also let me know if you need any help designing or implementing your ideas.

I look forward to hearing about what you decide to do!
