

Chapter 5: Summary

Summary

That wraps things up for today. We covered four layout managers—BorderLayout, BoxLayout, FlowLayout, and GridLayout—as well as how to use them. We also worked with some new components, a panel and a scroll pane.

After you've digested all that, try it out in the assignment for this lesson, and let me know if you have any problems with it.

Next time, we'll take things a step further with our GUI. We're going to look at how to add and use one of the most common GUI elements ever: the menu bar and its subcomponents, menus and menu items.

I'll see you then.