

Chapter 5

As you might have noticed, we're not quite done creating our window yet, but we've covered enough ground for one lesson!

We now have a working window with menus, a picture, radio buttons, check boxes, and text fields with labels, all nicely organized and laid out.

In the next lesson, we'll finish up the south region of the window, and then we'll add the code we need to make the menu options work.

I'll see you next time.
